

THE KITCHEN CABINET

HOORAY your friends wisely tell you that you are a true friend, the rarest gem. Prove hard to tell. Winter him, summer him. Know your friend well.

Who dare deny the truth, there's poetry in pie.

PIE, THE GREAT AMERICAN DESERT.

Pie crust is condemned as indigestible, owing to a great measure to the finished product. The materials, if rightly handled and baked, are not such a menace to the digestive powers as we are led to suppose. A light, flaky crust well baked and well masticated, is not unwholesome, if eaten not too frequently or in too large quantities. At any rate, bad food, people will have pie, so let us make them as perfectly as possible.

The proportions for a medium rich crust are one and a half cups of flour to six tablespoons of lard, a teaspoonful of salt and as little cold water as possible when mixing. Handle quickly, always rolling the crust from you.

Orange Cream Pie—Beat together two egg yolks and a half cup of sugar, add two tablespoons of flour and one of cornstarch; cook in a pint of milk, cool and flavor with orange rind or extract, and pour into a baked crust. Beat the whites stiff, add a baked crust, and spread over the top. Bake until the meringue is brown. The mixture must be well cooked with the cornstarch before the yolks of the eggs are added.

Chocolate Pie—Melt two squares of chocolate, add a half cup of sugar, four tablespoons of cornstarch, three egg yolks, salt, vanilla. Cook all together except the egg yolks and vanilla. A pint of milk is added, then when the cornstarch is cooked stir in the eggs and cool. Flavor, pour into a baked crust and cover with a meringue made of the egg whites.

DO NOT be troubled because you have not great virtues. God made a million spears of grass where he made one tree.

The earth is fringed and carpeted not with forests, but with grasses.

Only have enough of the little virtues and common fidelities and you need not mourn because you are neither a hero nor a saint.

—Henry Ward Beecher.

SMALL CHOCOLATE CAKES.

These small cakes are nice to serve for afternoon teas or receptions:

Chocolate Dominoes—Mix together a half cupful each of chopped walnuts and figs, add a half cup of powdered almonds and the rind of an orange, a pinch of salt and orange juice to make of a consistency to spread. Knead on a sugared board, cut in domino shape, coat with melted chocolate and decorate with pieces of almonds to simulate the dots on the dominoes.

Chocolate Angellets—Beat the whites of four eggs, add a half teaspoonful of cream of tartar, a half cup of sugar, pinch of salt. Beat and fold in a fourth of a cup of flour, four tablespoons of grated chocolate, a teaspoonful of vanilla, drop on a buttered sheet in spoonfuls, sprinkle with powdered sugar and bake in a moderate oven.

Brownies—Cream a cup of butter, add a cup of sugar, two squares of chocolate, two eggs, and a half cup each of chopped nuts and flour, with a pinch of salt. Spread on buttered sheets and bake fifteen minutes. Cut in squares as soon as baked.

Chocolate Cakes—Cream two tablespoons of butter, add a cup of sugar and half a cup of water, two beaten eggs, four tablespoons of grated chocolate, pinch of salt, one and a half cups of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder. Melt the chocolate over hot water and flavor with vanilla. Bake in patty pans in a moderate oven.

Good Scheme.

"My barber always insists on singeing my hair."

"Why don't you wear a celluloid collar sometime and surprise him?"

Such a Mad Wag.

He—Ever notice what a heavy face Mrs. Stronghold has?

She—Yes, what a thump there'd be if her countenance fell.

Ruling Passion.

First Messenger Boy—I had to take a pretty tough wire up to that Gilday girl on de ave dis morning. Railway smash an' a lot of her folks badly hurt. She made me stay fer de reply while she read it.

Second Messenger—Did she faint?

"None."

"Scream?"

"None."

"What did she say?"

"She said: 'What do you know about that?'"

New Name for It.

A lady living in Dorchester recently left her new Irish maid in charge of the house while she went shopping. Among her purchases was an umbrella stand for the vestibule. After her shopping tour she paid a visit to a friend and did not arrive home until late.

"Well, Mary," she said, "did any packages come?"

"Yes, mum," was the reply, "The wagon cum wi' th' cuspidor for de umbrella."—Boston Transcript.

MISSOURI STATE NEWS

Hens Rank Next to Corn.

The hens of Missouri furnish enough eggs to give every person in the state one and a half to eat each day. That means that 150 million dozen eggs are laid in the state each year. H. L. Kemper, professor of poultry husbandry at the University of Missouri, has just computed the work of Missouri hens. He shows that the state poultry crop each year is the most valuable of any except the corn crop. The hen, according to his figures, should outrank the mule. The average number marketed each year in the state is 22 million dozen. The estimated total output is 150 million dozen. This means about 540 eggs for every person in Missouri. Those figures are remarkable for the reason that chicken raising is not the regular business of many farmers, but merely an adjunct. There are in the state only about one hundred carload lot shippers of eggs. Word has come to the university that the United States Department of Agriculture is planning to start a field station at Sedalia to help the farmers improve the eggs produced and get a better price.

Carries Enmity Beyond Grave.

The will of David P. Rankin a St. Louis capitalist leaves the bulk of the millions in stock and realty holdings to three nieces living in Montreal, Canada. The estate is estimated at $6,000,000. Personal property alone is appraised at $3,000,000. The provisions of the bequests to the nieces, Annie R. Logan, Mary Rankin and Jessie Rankin, who will receive about $1,500,000 each, bind them on pain of losing everything not to give a single penny of their inheritance to their father or stepmother. In case any of the nieces pays even the forbidden penny for their bachelor uncle to either of their parents and the trustees learn of it, that niece is to be treated as if dead and her share diverts to her descendants. This strange enmity, carried beyond the grave, extends also to Mary Rankin Jordan and her descendants and to two paternal aunts of Rankin, who were long since dead when he made his will. The aunts are Ann Rankin and Mary Patten and the will directs that in case of the death of either heirs the immense property is to be divided by the trustees that the descendants of these relatives are to be treated as dead.

James River Dam Begun.

Within a month of the expiration of the life of the franchise granted by congress permitting the damming of the James river, work was started on the construction of a hydro-electric power plant at Virgin Rock, near Galena, Stone county. A company composed of General William H. Standish of Aurora, and his associates is building the dam. It is probable the power generated there will be distributed by the Ozark Power and Water company. It will be necessary to tunnel for half a mile near a bend in the river to get the necessary fall.

To Advertise the State.

One hundred thousand dollars will be spent by the state organizations of Missouri in the next few years in bringing farmers and industries to the state and thus developing its resources, if the plans of the Federation of Missouri Commercial clubs are successfully carried out.

Springfield Assured Appropriation.

Judge John T. Sturgis of the Springfield court of appeals, returned from Jefferson City, where he appeared before the joint appropriation committee of the house and senate relative to funds for a library for the court. He was assured an appropriation of $10,000.

Will Dispose of Farm Crops.

If any farmer in the state has seed corn, wheat, cow peas, mules, clover, poultry or any product to sell and he believes that he isn't offered a fair price at his home market; or if he desires a farm hand, let him write to L. M. Drumm, Columbia, and he will get out. Mr. Drumm is secretary of the Missouri State Exchange formed here at the gathering of farmers at the college of agriculture Farmers' Week. Memberships are being issued this week with two thousand applications from farmers in every part of the state.

Farm Expert to Livingston.

It took 30 members of the Chillicothe Chamber of Commerce just 30 minutes to decide that Livingston county needed a farm adviser, and Mr. Dean at Columbia was notified by wire to consider Livingston county an applicant for an adviser. A committee of business men guaranteed the money to pay the adviser until it could be secured by a private subscription.

A Mother Dies of Grief.

Mrs. Jacob Tebbenkamp is dead at her home in Grover township, 18 miles north of Warrensburg. The physicians say she died of grief over the loss of three children by diphtheria.

An Old Bloomington Farmer Dead.

John Hess, 83 years old, one of the oldest farmers in Macon county, died at his home near Old Bloomington. Mr. Hess was a resident of the county when the county seat was located at Old Bloomington.

Why Snow is Warm.

Snow is warm by virtue of its light and woolly texture. But it is also warm on account of its whiteness. Had snow been black it would have absorbed the heat of the sun and melted quickly. Instead, it reflects heat, and the reflected heat falls upon bodies above the snow, while the warmth of the earth is preserved beneath it.

No, Cordelia, it doesn't make a singer's tones clear to strain her voice.

DOCTOR HAD THE LAST LAUGH

Humorous Western Millionaire Had His Stomach Treated, and Later Paid the Accustomed Fee.

At the recent homeopathic convention at the Delaware Water Gap Dr. August Korndorfer, Jr., told a story about a brother specialist who is an authority on the stomach.

"Blank," he said, "was traveling in the west, where they are all great jokers. At a western country club a jovial looking stranger accosted Blank and said:

"Dr. Blank, I believe?"

"Yes, sir; thank you."

"The great Dr. Blank?"

"Well, er—I well, yes, I have been called—er by that name."

"The Dr. Blank who treats stomachs?"

"Precisely, sir."

"Then, Dr. Blank, as it's the lunch hour and our table d'hôte is excellent, I wish you'd treat mine," said the joker.

"Dr. Blank's veins, as we all know, run rich with generous sporting blood, and he treated the stranger—an amiable western millionaire, as it turned out—to lunch. But he got his revenge. Later on in the afternoon he approached a group of men with a roll of small bills in his hand.

"Has anybody here," he said, "got a tam soap?"

"The western joker promptly produced a $10 note and handed it to Blank. Blank thanked him, thrust the note in his pocket and turned away.

"Look here," said the westerner, "what did you want that bill for?"

"What did I want it for?" said Blank, blandly. "Why, for treating your stomach, of course. It's my usual fee."

Going to Church in Finland.

Church-going in certain parts of Finland has to be done by boat, and has come to be regarded as quite a social function. The boats are of such a size that in many of them a hundred persons can be accommodated. Twenty or thirty sit at the oars together, and as it is considered the proper thing for everyone to serve his turn, this mutual self-help tends to make the worshippers better acquainted with each other and to strengthen the bonds of friendship. Some of the boats have a long distance to go to church, and in that event it is not unusual for the party to start on Saturday night. The peasants go down to the water side in the evening to meet the boat, each carrying a little bundle containing his or her "Sunday best." Service lasts some hours and after it is ended the "Sunday best" is doffed, made up into little bundles again and the church boat starts for home.

Portland Vase.

The material of the famous Portland Vase is glass, but genuine cameo engraving. The vase is composed of two layers of glass, white over dark blue. The white was ground away by hand so as to leave the design in white upon the blue background. It is one of the tragedies of the British Museum that this priceless treasure was smashed to pieces by an insane visitor. It has, however, been repaired with great skill, and is now guarded with extra care. The beautiful specimen of Greek art is ten inches in height, with a diameter at its broadest part of seven inches. Its present name comes from the fact that it was once owned by the duke of Portland, who loaned it to the British museum in 1180.

Why Throw an Old Shoe?

I fancy, however, that the custom of throwing an old shoe after the happy couple still continues. This, it is said, originated from an occurrence at the marriage of John Churchill, the great Duke of Marlborough, who was assaulted on his wedding day by an angry aunt, who threw her old slippers at him. His great good fortune was by some attributed to this, which caused the custom to be generally adopted. Whether there is any historical foundation I am unable to say.

—Lady Nevill, "Under Five Reigns."

Pathetic Poverty.

A visitor to a city slum moved by the pathetic appearance of one small resident, gave him a dime. The boy handed it back with a request that it be changed for a penny.

"But why, sonnie? Don't you know that a dime is worth ten pennies?" was the giver's natural question.

"Yes, sir, but if you give me a dime, I'll have to give it to mother, came the halting explanation. "We're so poor that I couldn't keep a dime for myself. But if I had just a penny I could spend it on candy if I liked."
